Contextualisation

Students will be taught knowledge, skills and abilities in order to better understand the role of firms and their behaviour in the tourism sector.

Requirements

This course has no prerequisites, however, because of its approach to business analysis from economics, it is recommended that students have at least a basic knowledge of microeconomics.

Recommendable

A basic knowledge of microeconomics.

Skills

With this course the student is expected to acquire both generic and specific skills related to the role of firms and their behaviour in the tourism sector.

Specific

- * To interpret the empirical results.
- * To know the institutional context of the tourism activity.
- * To contribute to the economic and tourism knowledge areas.
- * To apply appropriate scientific methodologies knowing its basis.
- * To understand business activity related to the topics discussed in the course.

Generic

- * To be familiar with scientific texts.
- * To be able to form, to express and to defend concepts clearly, accepting criticism.
- * To convert an empirical problem in a research object and to formulate conclusions.
- * Team work.
- * To elaborate work proposals.
- * To critically interpret and evaluate results.

Basic

- * You may consult the basic competencies students will have to achieve by the end of the Master's degree at the following address: http://estudis.uib.cat/master/comp_basiques/

Content

This course is intended to cover the study of a series of topics related to the role of firms and their behaviour in the tourism sector. In order to have a complete understanding of tourism, an analysis of firms in its industries is necessary. Furthermore, in a world in constant change, we believe that the economic approach to business analysis that we take will prove particularly useful. The course will help students to apply the economic principles and the necessary analytical skills so as to understand and evaluate business behaviour in relation to the topics covered in the subject.

Theme content

1. The firm in the tourism sector
2. Intermediation in the tourism sector
3. Corporate social responsibility in the tourism industries

Teaching methodology

In order to develop and evaluate the competencies stated above, this section describes the activities faced by the student throughout the course. In this regard, note that, in order to foster autonomy and individual work of students, the course will be part of Campus Extens, which incorporates the use of web platform. Using Moodle platform will allow students an online communication and distance learning with the teacher, teaching materials as electronic documents, etc.
